Edith Chatfield, Tri Gamma, is the addition to the queen race.Other candidates include Chris Bianco, Kappa Theta; Ruth Dowling, Alpha Chi Alpha; Lupe Fabela, Phi Lambda Chi; Alice Fontenot, United Language Club; Ethel Ramstad, Bib 'n' Tucker; Dorrie Van Landingham, Sigma Delta Gamma; and Milly Warren of Alpha Omega.

In conjunction with the dance, a rally will be held today, featuring outside talent as well as the performances of Staters. Paul Demond, record pantomimist and singer, will be featured along with the Reyes sisters, who will dance.

Called "one of the best planned dances I have yet seen" by Bert Phillips, commissioner of activities, the Prom will be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

CHOIR WITH S.F. SYMPHONY IN OPERA HOUSE PERFORMANCE

The A Capella Choir joins the San Francisco Symphony and Opera Chorus in a performance of Moussorksky's "Boris Gudounoff" tonight, Friday and Saturday night at 8:30 p.m. in the Opera House.

Dr. Roy Freeburg, director of State's choir since its inception in 1934, yields his baton to internationally famous Leopold Stokowski.

An ex-graduate of the A Capella Choir, Lawrence Mason '50, is a soloist in the Opera, to be presented in concert form.

This is the choir's first performance in the Opera House since 1950, when it appeared in Berlioz' "Requiem" and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. Last Christmas, and every Christmas, the choir appears over transcontinental radio.

The choir was instructed in the phonetics of the Russian language by Miss Seraphina Strelova, of the Music Department here.

Curtain Rises Tonight On 'Time of Your Life'

Saroyan's Local Characters Reappear in Frederic Burk

By LYNN LUDLOW

William Saroyan's modern classic, "The Time of Your Life," will open tonight in Frederic Burk auditorium for a six-night run.

The curtain rises at 8:30 p.m., December 4, 5, 6 and 11, 12, 13. Admission (under-cutting nearly every Bay Area dramatic production) is 60 cents with student body card, 90 cents without.

The play is thoroughly San Franciscan. Saroyan, a San Franciscan playwright and author, drew his characters from the habitues of a North Beach bar, tended by the late Izzy Gomez.

ENTHUSIASTIC REPORTS

Advance billings from the State College Theater bubble with enthusiasm. Rehearsals, they say, have come along without a hitch.

The cast of 27 is not only one of the largest ever assembled (in terms of relatively equal importance); it is also one of the best, according to the drama hangerson.

Opportunities are rife in Saroyan's plotless play for those who seek out "meaning" or "impact" in their theater-going. A reading of the drama shows a strange and fascinating group of characters, each of whom seems to express some facet of Saroyan's full philosophy.

"Remember that every man is a variation of yourself," he says.

MOTLEY HOST

Dion Chesse, playing the college boy, said, "Sure there's no plot to the play. No plot to life, either." He elaborated: "Nick's Pacific street saloon and entertainment palace is the mirror Saroyan holds up to his audience to look at itself."

It will be interesting to see if the S. F. State Theater can faithfully re-create Saroyan's motley host of drunkards, streetwalkers, college boys, and cops on the postage-stamp stage of the cracker-box auditorium.

"It Happened One Night," starring Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert, will be shown Tuesday night, December 9, in A210.

The hilarious comedy, romance is a follow-up to the movie presented last week by the Associated Students, "Lost Horizon."

The admission will be 10 cents and Mary Courtney is in charge.

A VAST SOURCE OF U.S. OIL STILL UNTOUCHED!

1. Many Americans have probably never heard about oil shale—one of our country's greatest natural resources. Shale is a rock formation that contains kerogen—a solid that breaks down into oil and coke when heated. There are a number of shale formations in the U. S., the richest of which is in the Green River Basin of Colorado and Wyoming. This single 1000-square-mile deposit contains three times as much oil as the total proven crude oil reserves of the U.S.!

2. However, the big problem has been how to extract the oil from this shale on an economical basis. Union Oil research men have been experimenting with shale oil extraction since 1943. One of their accomplishments was the development of a retort that can extract shale oil far more economically than any previous method.

3. This retort—along with improved mining and refining techniques—has reduced the cost of producing oil from shale more than most people realize. And each year the cost of finding and producing crude oil continues to rise. At some time, then, it is probable that oil can be obtained from shale at a cost competitive with crude oil.

4. When this will come about is anybody's guess. But one thing is certain: the American people can be sure that this natural resource of theirs will be developed at the earliest possible date with the greatest efficiency only if private enterprise is left free to do the job. For our competitive private enterprise system has demonstrated time and time again that it can develop better products, for more people, at lower prices than any method yet devised by man.

State Symphonic Band Gives 'Mature' Concert

By RON RIDDLE

The State college symphonic band, in its recent concert at Commerce High, again proved its distinction among college bands: it is a musical organization. There were no colorful uniforms to compensate for off-color musical rendition. Instead, there was colorful music, rendered with a fair amount of mature interpretation.

The program contained a comprehensive representation of musical mode. Beginning, appropriately, with Bach, the program contained, among others, works by Enesco, Wagner, Moussorgsky, Grainger, and Copland.

RECURRING NUMBERS

There was a refreshing absence of those numbers which, because of their steady appearance on concert programs, have become musical cliches. A notable exception, however, was the rendition of De Falla's "Ritual Fire Dance," which suffered doubly from a poor arrangement and a rather lethargic interpretation.

Among those outstanding on the program was Copland's "A Lincoln Portrait." This well-balanced integration of narrative and music was performed effectively and with emotion.

Also effective was the band's dynamic performance of "Prelude" by Robert Soder, a graduate of State. This was an engrossing number based upon an interesting harmonic vocabulary.

It seems almost obligatory to include something by Leroy Anderson in a band concert. This necessity was fulfilled with "Horse and Buggy"—one of Anderson's better attempts.

SOUZA MARCH

One of the most interesting parts of the program was the band's rendition of Souza's "Stars and Stripes Forever." To many of us who seldom hear a march, except when it's being blared by a group of musicians trying to form letters on a football field, it is inspiring to hear one played by a well-modulated symphonic band.

The climax and concluding number was the coronation scene from "Boris Godounov" by Moussorgsky. The band's effervescent performance, augmented by the addition of the A Capella choir, provided a fitting conclusion to the evening's music.

Under the directorship of conductor Edwin Knuth and assistant conductor Lee Panttaja, the band assumed a smooth, well-regulated, although occasionally restrained, quality throughout. To quote one of the students present at the concert, "It's beautiful, it's not a band—it's an orchestra!"

Dinner, Social Evening Slated For Members Of Industrial Arts Dept.

The second annual get-together of the Industrial Arts department, sponsored by the Industrial Arts Forum, will be held Saturday, December 6, at 6:30 p.m.

The supper originated with Dr. Knuth's idea that all department members, administrators, faculty, and students should put aside their school work at least once each school year and join together, with their families and sweethearts, and get to know each other socially.

Last year approximately 20 couples attended the dinner. This year 90 guests are expected to attend.

WELFARE FUND DRIVE SCHEDULED NEXT WEEK

It doesn't take much to impress the majority of State students about money matters around school. To solve the problem for some students who have already borrowed the alloted $25 from the student assistance fund, another source is available, the Student Welfare fund.

A drive to fill the slowly depreciating fund will be conducted next week by a committee set for the sole purpose of raising money.

Headed by co-chairman Barbara Ebner and Johnny Lee, the drive will start via posters, a rally and aggressive committee members.

Two half-gallon jars, filled with money is the ultimate goal of the drive. At one time the fund hovered near the $500 mark, but it has now dwindled down to a mere $100.

The rally, scheduled for next week, will be a combination "pep talk" for the coming rally committee dance and the welfare drive.

GRANT'S TOME

VOLUME TWO, CHAPTER ONE

By HAL GRANT

25 YEARS OF MICKEY MOUSE

It's hard to believe but the mighty Mickey Mouse will reach his quarter-century mark next year.

Back in 1928 the show world witnessed the opening of a miniature called "Steamboat Willie." The star was an eager little fellow named Mickey House. Few realized that this mouse would labor and bring forth a multi-million-dollar industry.

Then, as now, Mickey's guide, friend, and voice was Walt Disney. The film wizard has a multitude of projects to help celebrate his brainchild's 25th anniversary. One of these is titled "Mickey's Birthday Party." It will be a 45 minute film in which the celebrated rodent will review some of his past hits.

There are many other impressive items on the Disney agenda. Mr. Disney himself seemed a little overwhelmd by them as he was interviewed by this reporter in Hollywood last Saturday evening.

Despite all his activities for theater films, Disney is also thinking about television, but only as a subsidiary to his present work. He almost signed a deal to start in January on a 15 minute twice weekly show.

"I think television can be used to help bring people into theaters. That is the way I intend to use it. That is why I had no complaints from theater men about the hour shows I did on TV over the holidays in the past. They were designed to help sell tickets to future movies."

NATIONAL ARNOLD AIR CONCLAVE

The world famous Biltmore hotel in Los Angeles was the scene of the fourth annual National Arnold Air Society conclave during the Thanksgiving holiday. Your reporter had the pleasure of representing San Francisco State at this convention.

The Arnold Air Society, as you probably know, is a national upper division honorary group. It was organized in 1947 in memory of that great American, General H. H. "Hap" Arnold. Five years ago the organization had one chapter at the University of Cincinnati. Today Arnold Air has over 10,000 members comprising 150 chapters.

During this year's three day conclave delegates from over 75 colleges and universities cussed and discussed various Arnold legislative proposals. Probably the most important deed accomplished by the society was the recommendation to Congress urging immediate action on House Bill 1168, which is currently "pigeon-holed." ouse Bill 1168 provides for an AFROTC training plan similar to the Navy's Holloway plan. The olloway plan gives a selected number of young men each year the opportunity to get their education at government expense. In return the cadet signs an agreement that he will not resign his commission, if tendered, until after the eighth anniversary of its receipts.

More Foreign Films on TV?

We, of the United Languages club feel, that if more foreign films were shown on television it would be conducive to a more friendly relationship between foreign countries and ourselves. In addition, need we mention the various opinions—some of which we had considered—and many of which were valid, but none authoritative. We then called Mr. William Dempsey, educational director of KPIX, who also was unable to put his finger on the exact cause, but mentioned sev- and television business, including our own Mr. Dale N. Anderson, faculty member of the radio department at San Francisco State college. Mr. Anderson offered a venture. I talked with many people having various connections in the motion picture, radio eral probable reasons substantiated by population figures and cost of production.

When the matter was introduced in the club, I was asked to investigate the possibilities of such

We refused to admit defeat. I then called Mr. Armando Emanuel, owner of the Sutter theatre. Senior Emanuel says that the reason we have seen no Spanish any very few other foreign language films on television is that obvious factor that it would facilitate comprehension for thousands of American students now the exchanges (people who import foreign films) refuse to sell to television distributors, for the very obvious reason that it would decrease box office receipts at the theatres. Senior Emanuel gave his permission to be quoted.

Now that we know the reason, what can we do to alter this undemocratic stand the exchanges have taken? Does anyone have a suggestion? If so, please write your suggestion on a slip of paper and leave it in Mr. Reyes' PO box 59, or in mailbox 2178.

Thank you,

Thelma Ellis

Hoopsters Down Coastguardsmen 65 To 60

Busby, Desin Go In Basketball Opener; Face Moffett Field Flyers Tomorrow

The San Francisco State basketballers pocketed the 1952 hoop inaugural 65 to 60 over the sailors from Uncle Sam's Coast Guard last Friday night at the new campus basketball emporium.

The Gators opened up the scoring with a bucket by Vic Gipson from about 15 feet out. All through the first half the Gators maintained a comfortable lead of 12 to 14 points. Charlie Miller, a St. Mary's transfer was throwing them in from all directions.

At half time the Gators had a 36 to 28 bulge.

In the second half State continued to dominate the play until the final minutes of the contest when the Coast Guardsmen began hitting from mid-court.

With the help of speedy forwards Gene Busby and Charlie Miller the Gators put the game on ice.

Charlie Andrews, Owen Kashaveroff, and Soccer Coach Art Bridgman will appear on Joe Verducci's KPIX TV show tonight at 7 p.m.

Charlie Miller won high scoring honors with 16 points.

In a preliminary game the S.F. State JV hoopsters downed the Mission varsity 50 to 38. The JV attack was lead by lanky Thatcher Nance who was responsible for 14 State tallies.

Tomorrow night at the new campus Dan Farmer's men take on the Moffett Field Flyers. The contest is scheduled for 8 p.m. At 6:15 p.m. the State JV's tangle with the Moffett Field JV's.

Booters Edged By USF Dons

Championship hopes for a vastly improved SF State soccer squad went a glimmering November 27, as the fighting Gators went down before the USF Dons, who chalked up their 44th win without a defeat in annexing the decision.

The contest, which was held on the new campus, saw the Gators fail to enter the scoring column as the Dons kept them on the defensive for most of the game.

Jose Leon heroed for the USF teams, as he scored both of his squad's goals. Leon tallied first in the opening quarter and booted in the second final goal in the third period.

Next week the Staters take on that same Stanford team in the season's windup on the latter's cracker box field in Palo Alto. In their last contest with the Indians, the Gators took the decision by a 2-1 count.

Following the game the State soccer squad will hold a banquet at the New Tivoli restaurant.
